EAIE elections – Support of the four Swiss candidates

Today, the voting period for the future group of EAIE leaders is opening!

The Rectors' Conference of Swiss higher education institutions, swissuniversities, is very proud that four representatives of the Swiss higher education community are candidates:

- Robert Buttery, Head of International Relations FHNW University of Applied Sciences and Arts Northwestern Switzerland, School of Business – standing for Vice-President;
- Amanda Cramer, Head of Division Higher education, Movetia – running for a position in the Expert Community European Collaborative Programmes;
- Erich Thaler, Head Global Affairs, University of Basel – running for a position in the Expert Community Cooperation for Development;
- Andrea Wehrli, Professor and Lecturer of Law at Bern University of Applied Sciences – running for a position in the Expert Community Language and Culture.

This commitment shows the high level and the importance of internationalization for Swiss higher education institutions.

swissuniversities supports the candidature of these four outstanding candidates, who enjoy high international knowledge, experience and competencies. Without any doubts, they will fulfil their mission with energy, enthusiasm and professionalism. Thus, they will bring a high added-value in the groups they are competing for and will engage to bring internationalization and mobility further.

swissuniversities is therefore encouraging you to vote for its four representatives.

So, if you are a member of EAIE, make sure to vote till 24 April and make the right choice!
