Diploma Background Report for Refugees with Insufficient Documentation

If you are unable to provide sufficient documentation on your qualification, a diploma background report may be of assistance

The diploma background report describes your educational background, indicating how the Swiss ENIC would assess a similar qualification if the required documents were available. The background report may help you explain your qualification when looking for job opportunities in Switzerland.

You can apply for a diploma background report if the following conditions apply

- You are the holder of a higher education diploma in a field of study which gives access to a non-regulated profession in Switzerland.
- You are unable to get hold of the documentation required for a regular diploma assessment. There must be good reasons why you cannot provide sufficient documentation, for instance because of a war-like situation in your country.
- You are the holder of a Swiss F or B Permit.
- You are willing to spend some time describing your education including the courses of your study programme.

Procedure

If you are interested in a diploma background report, please contact the Swiss ENIC, see the contact page at www.enic.ch .
